Subject: Urge the maximum sentence for Michael Slattery, Jr.

Dear Judge Gleeson,

I am writing to you regarding the hearing scheduled on January 10, 2014 to sentence Michael Slattery, Jr. for violations of the Lacey Act. As a concerned citizen wanting to protect the endangered black rhinoceros from extinction, I urge you to sentence Mr. Slattery to the maximum extent permitted by law.

All species of rhinoceros are protected under U.S. and international law, and all black rhinoceros species are endangered. The black rhinoceros has been driven to the brink of extinction by illicit international markets that value ornamental carvings and alleged medicinal properties of rhinoceros horn.

Individuals such as Mr. Slattery exacerbate the decimation of the rhinoceros population in Africa, where they are poached relentlessly. A strong sentence for Mr. Slattery will send a clear message that this type of activity will not be tolerated in the U.S.

Future generations should have the opportunity to experience the beauty of these magnificent animals in the wild – not simply as bygone animals who have become extinct due to human greed. Again, please do whatever is in within your power to sentence this individual to the maximum extent of the law. Thank you.

RE: Maximum sentence for Michael Slattery, Jr.

I am writing in regard to the hearing scheduled on January 10, 2014 to sentence Michael Slattery, Jr. for violations of the Lacey Act. As a concerned citizen wanting to protect the endangered black rhinoceros from extinction, I urge you to sentence this person to the maximum extent permitted by law.

All species of rhinoceros are protected under U.S. and international law, and all black rhinoceros species are endangered. The black rhinoceros has been driven to the brink of extinction by illicit international markets that value ornamental carvings and alleged medicinal properties of rhinoceros horn.

Individuals such as Mr. Slattery exacerbate the decimation of the rhinoceros population in Africa, where they are relentlessly poached. A strong sentence will send a clear message that this type of activity will not be tolerated in the U.S.

Such individuals encourage poaching, a growing crisis that not only puts at risk populations of animals in the wild; but the criminal trade associated with it has staggering human costs. More than 1,000 wildlife rangers have been killed in the last decade by poachers. And the poaching and illegal trafficking of ivory, rhino horn and other wildlife products are exacerbating corruption, destabilizing rural communities, and undermining tourism-based economies in several African countries.

Illicit wildlife trafficking is now recognized as one of the top five transnational organized crimes--a multibillion-dollar illegal trade that is increasingly dominated by international criminal networks and has been connected to militant groups and organizations with terrorist ties, such as the Lord's Resistance Army and Al-Shabab.

The United States can make a huge difference for rhinos, elephants and other trafficked species if it takes strong and urgent action.

Future generations should have the opportunity to experience the beauty of these magnificent animals in the wild – not simply as bygone animals who have become extinct due to human greed. Please do whatever is within your power to sentence this individual to the maximum extent of the law.

Thank you for your help to keep wildlife in the wild.
